FRENCH WAR OFFICE REPORTS GERMAN ATTACKS REPULSED

Statement From Official Sources Says Invaders' Movements in Neighborhood of La Basse and North of Albert Came to Naught.

LONDON ANXIOUS ABOUT ZEPPELIN RAIDS

News From Dover Describes Heavy Firing by Battleship Guarding the Town—Some Claim Directed at Dirigibles and Some Assert Aim Was at Submarines.

The French war office reports German attacks in the neighborhood of La Basse and to the north of Albert, which are declared to have been repulsed. Probably the greatest activity along the line is being displayed in the Argonne region, but the engagement so far as is known have in no way been decisive.

In the east the Austrians claim successes in Russian Poland and West Galicia and the capture of Bukovina through which territory the Russians were planning to make their way into Hungary, is declared by all sides to be without change.

The occupation of Tabriz, Persia, is officially announced from Petrograd, as well as the capture of East Prussia. The situation in Bukovina through which territory the Russians were planning to make their way into Hungary, is declared by all sides to be without change.

London has spent several hours in anxious anticipation of a raid by Zeppelin dirigibles, but waited in vain. Reports from the batteries guarding the town, in some quarters it was said that the fire was directed against Zeppelins, and in others against submarines. According to latest advice the alleged Zeppelins were not sighted by any other coast town.

The American secretary of state, Mr. Bryan, has informed the German ambassador that the American government does not concur in Germany's contention that hydro-aeroplanes manufactured in the United States for Great Britain or Russia must be regarded as war material. The delivery of which should be stopped. Mr. Bryan said he did not regard "the obligations imposed by the treaty or by the accepted rules of international law as applicable to air craft of any sort."

The cost of living in all the belligerent countries is rapidly increasing and labor troubles are threatened in Great Britain, where the workmen claim wages should be commensurate with the cost of existence. In Germany the sale of bread under the new regulations has begun, although the rule limiting the purchase has not yet been applied. The Austrian decree reducing the proportion of wheat or rye flour in bread-making to fifty per cent will become effective on Saturday next.

For the shooting of two American duck hunters by Canadian militiamen guarding the Canadian shores, Canada will pay $10,000 to the parents of the man killed and $5,000 to the man wounded, in settlement of the case.

Dr. Schuster, secretary of the German Iron Founders' union, declares that Germany by using bronze monuments, copper crucifixes of churches and copper used for other purposes would have sufficient of the metal to enable her to hold out for 30 years.

Uneasy in London. London, Feb. 1.—Special orders issued by the police shortly before 8 o'clock tonight caused blinds to be whisked down all over London. Reports spread that five Zeppelin dirigibles sighted over Dover and presumably making inland, had been fired on by the forts. Parts of the city of London waited for more than two hours with blinds drawn, but nothing happened. Inquiries elicited from the police the information that orders to prepare for an air raid had been issued by the war office, but whether because air craft really had been sighted or as a rehearsal, it was impossible to ascertain.

One message from Dover reported that the raiders had been driven off by the gun fire, but no details were forthcoming. This flurry served to break the monotony of the news from battle fronts, where none of the reports either in the east or the west has been able to deliver a blow sufficient to cause any shift in their alignment. The German submarine attacks on the British Merchant ships continue to be the paramount topic of discussion and predictions are made that food prices which are already soaring, will go still higher if many more raids are accomplished.

The shipping of the west coast is still somewhat upset, the Dublin Steam Packet company announcing tonight the temporary abandoning of all sailings with Belfast, Liverpool and Glasgow. One other Dublin company has also suspended its sailings, but the other schedules are being maintained as usual.

The chief source Great Britain finds in the German submarine attacks is that the craft thus used cannot take part in the regular naval operations. Out of the confused fighting in the Carpathians, which continues to dominate the military situation, comes nothing in the way of a decisive conflict and perhaps the most significant news from the east is the theatre is the theory enunciated from Petrograd that Field Marshal von Hindenburg is planning another general onslaught on the Russian lines west of Warsaw.

Artillery duels almost exclusively have been the measure of the recent fighting in France and Belgium. The German official statement dismisses the western theatre with the terse announcement, "nothing to report." The French record only one infantry attack to the southeast of Ypres, where they say a German attempt to advance was stopped.

The British parliament will reassemble tomorrow for consideration of a number of important war-time questions. While no contentious legislation will be debated, the labor party will press for government action with reference to the increase in the price of food, alien-enemy restrictions probably will again be threshed out.

THREE DECISIONS CLARIFY STATUTE

COURTS DECIDE RAILROADS MUST PAY EMPLOYEES FOR TIME ON DUTY.

San Francisco, Feb. 1.—Three decisions further clarifying the federal statute of 1907, regulating the hours of railroad employees, were rendered here today by the United States circuit court of appeals.

In a case decided against the Northern Pacific railroad the court held that being on duty is equivalent to continuous employment. A Northern Pacific train crew was on duty more than sixteen hours, although part of that time it was idle, so far as manual labor went, owing to a stop.

Bad weather and washouts, the court held in the case of the San Pedro, Los Angeles and Salt Lake road, did not excuse the company for working a crew more hours than the law allows, if there is opportunity in a course of run to change crews. The decision implied that where the company is not in control of the situation, it cannot reasonably be held liable.

In another case affecting the same road the lower court was reversed and the company absolved. A railroad telegraph operator who had worked more than the nine hours allowed by the law was held to be on duty, although he was not on duty when a sick man was found to be included in the emergency provisions of the act.

7 Workmen Killed by Falling Walls

Grand Rapids, Mich., Feb. 1.—Seven workmen employed in clearing away the ruins of a factory building which was destroyed by fire two weeks ago, were killed today when one of the walls collapsed, burying them under a mass of brick and mortar.

A dozen other men were hurt by flying debris and some of them seriously injured.

The wall gave way before the pressure of the heavy wind and sleet storm which was sweeping over the city.

Cattlemen Confer. Austin, Feb. 1.—President J. D. Jackson of the Texas Cattlemen's association, W. C. Waddell, former chairman of the Livestock Sanitary commission, and J. H. Avery, who has just been appointed to succeed Mr. Waddell, are here today relative to a new cattle quarantine bill, which is soon to be introduced in the legislature.

Five are to have a conference in which a suitable measure is to be agreed upon. One of the charges proposed, said President Jackson, is to make the livestock quarantine law apply to sheep and goats. He also is to urge the enactment of the sheep and goat bounty bill, that is, a measure offering a bounty for the scalps of predatory animals which prey on goats and sheep.

BAILEY INTRODUCES BILL PROVIDING FOR PETROLEUM BOARD

SPONSOR OF TEXAS COMPANY MEASURE WANTS A STATE COMMISSION TO HANDLE OIL MATTERS—LEVY A SPECIAL TAX.

MORE APPOINTMENTS MADE

Governor Ferguson Sends List of Nominations to the Senate for Confirmation—Colonel McCollum in Austin to Take the Oath of Office.

Austin, Tex., Feb. 1.—When the hearing on the Texas company bill was resumed tonight before the senate committee of the whole, Senator Bailey of Harris county asked to have read for the information of the senators a bill he had offered in the senate providing for the regulation and control of pipe line companies by a commission composed of the attorney general, the state commissioner of banking and a petroleum commissioner who shall be chairman of the commission and receive $4,000 salary; the salaries and expenses of the commission to be paid out of a levy of a tax of one-twentieth of one per cent on the gross revenues derived from the production of oil.

The petroleum commission shall have the power and it is made its duty to establish and enforce reasonable and just rates for the gathering, transportation and storage of oil by such common carriers and to prescribe and enforce such rules and regulations for their government and control in respect to their pipe line facilities as the railroad commission may exercise in respect to the facilities of railroads.

The bill provides for a change of tonnage between pipe line companies for the publication of their tariffs and for making reports to the commission. It prohibits discrimination between patrons of pipe lines. The bill carries an emergency clause.

Chairman Morrow decided this bill was not before the committee and only the original bill enlarging the powers of the company could be considered under the rules adopted.

Barry Miller of Dallas then was introduced and began his closing argument in behalf of the opponents of the bill.

He told of collecting data from the Gore bill and other congressional proceedings upon which he prepared a bill to be introduced in this legislature to regulate pipe lines and production. He wrote to his office Mr. Sharp, telling him his purpose. He said, "I am not a big fight for them and those associated with them to undertake alone, as it would bring the fight upon them by all the great pipe line companies of the country. The bill, he said, was not directed alone against the Texas company, but against every company owning production and pipe lines."

Shortly after the first of January, Judge Johns of the Texas company, had sent him a copy of this bill. The company now is pressing for passage. The bill, he said, was in New York, of the introduction of the bill, told him he was going to Austin to fight it and he advised Sharp to come to Texas at once.

He said he never knew there was an independent producers' association organized until he got to Austin and he was unfailingly to them that their interests should be affected by any prejudice against him or his client. He read the circular issued by the independent producers' association, which the pipe line companies were driving them from business. He denied he had been actuated by sinister motive or greedy impulse in deciding to introduce the bill for the government of production and pipe lines. He would not let it destroy that democratic principle which said no corporation should be formed in Texas for more than one purpose, and except light and water companies in municipalities.

Has an industry which in seven years, he asked, has paid $40,000,000 in cash dividends, $9,000,000 in stock dividends, and according to the state dividend commission, has now more than $200,000,000 of assets and above its liabilities, including bonds, stocks and all other claims, as a weakling upon this legislature. He appealed for the defeat of the bill.

Messages from the governor were sent in this afternoon making the following nominations: Pilot commissioner, port of Houston—E. J. Huxford, W. E. Humphreys, Thomas Kehoe, A. Latham and Pat Foley.

Public Weighers, Houston—C. P. Reynaud, John D. Woolford, A. Coles, William Edmonds and Davis Rice. To be members of Confederate Home Board—John S. Pannell, Travis county; S. F. Evans, Williamson county; Board of Deaf and Dumb Asylum, Austin—Joe Koen, Sid Nolan, Travis county.

High Honor for Workman

HENRY VINTON NEAL AND VIEWS OF BOTH SIDES OF THE MEDAL HE WAS AWARDED.

The highest honor probably ever bestowed upon any workman in the United States was accorded Henry Vinton Neal, a mechanic in the shops of the Boston Elevated company at the annual dinner of the American Museum of Safety announced the winner of the Anthony N. Brady memorial medals for safety work. In announcing the award to Neal, President Williams referred to it as "the highest American order of industrial merit."

Partly as a result of Neal's efforts a complete safety system has been adopted in the machine shops of the Boston Elevated company. This enabled him to win the gold medal. During the past year accidents have been reduced 19.6 per cent.

Early in 1914 the family of the late Anthony N. Brady authorized the award annually by the American Museum of Safety of a gold medal to the American electric railway company which, for the last year of the award, shall have done the most to conserve the safety and health of the public and its employees. In addition to the gold medal a duplicate in silver goes to the member of the operating staff who has most contributed to the successful record of the company. Another duplicate in bronze is awarded to the employee of the company whose services have been of the greatest in the promotion of safety and health.

Chicago, Feb. 1.—A snow or sleet storm covered the whole middle west tonight, halting telephone and telegraph communications, delaying trains and making foot traffic in the cities almost impossible because of the icy streets.

In the west the telegraph companies were unable to reach points west of the Missouri river, the snow and sleet completely throwing out wires. The storm existed, though in less severe shape, as far east as Cleveland, and according to Henry J. Cowley, official weather forecaster, it is likely to continue for several days.

MOVEMENT STARTED BY DIAZ AND HUERTA PARTY SUPPORTERS

CIENFuegos, According to Authentic Information at El Paso, Launch Campaign Against Villa and Carranza.

PEACE CONFERENCE PLANNED

Report Says Session Will Be Held in San Antonio February 5, When a New Method of Government Will Be Suggested—Investigate Rifle Shipment.

Mexico City, Feb. 1.—Colonel Serrano, chief of Gen. Obregon's staff, tonight telegraphed General Venustiano Carranza as follows:

"I have the honor to communicate that a constitutional chief arriving here from Tepic by way of Irapuato says it is reported in the latter place that General Villa died as the result of wounds inflicted at Aguas Calientes by Colonel Rodolfo Fierro. The report emanated from Villa sources."

The state department at Washington was advised Sunday by American Agent Carothers at El Paso that General Villa had sent him a telegram from Aguas Calientes saying he had not been injured.

El Paso, Tex., Feb. 1.—A movement directed against the Carranza and Villa elements in Mexico has been launched by the centrist party which supported Diaz and the Huerta regime, according to authentic information received here today. The new movement is said to have received the adherence of men formerly wealthy land owners.

Further, it was declared that a purported peace conference of prominent Mexicans set for Feb. 5 at San Antonio, against the Mexican government, a new plan of government which would oppose both the constitutional and the conventionalists. Federico Gamboa, a former cabinet minister under President Huerta, and once ambassador to the Washington government, was reported as having been slated for the position of provisional president.

In the new movement the wealth of the centrist party and the military talent and resources of the Centrist are said to be relied upon to combat the Villa and Carranza strength. Both officers and soldiers who fought with Orozco in his revolution against the Mexican government have retained largely their organization, few of them taking part in the conflicts during the last year. General Salazar, a former Orozco chieftain, already is in the field in Chihuahua state.

Several of those connected with the San Antonio meeting, which was promoted originally by Arturo Elias, a former Huerta consular official, have asserted that permission to hold the conference had been granted by the United States government. During the last two days some of the most prominent soldiers connected with the former Huerta and Diaz governments have met here or at San Antonio. Elias at present is in Los Angeles interviewing several of the delegates sojourning in California.

Details of the movement were investigated by the destination of the large shipment of rifles and cartridges held recently by authorities at San Diego, Cal., on their way from New York to Texas through a Pacific port. The shipment, which was first supposed destined for the warships of some European power, they believe, was contracted for by the movement in Mexico.

Execution of Carranza. Laredo, Feb. 1.—Gen. Jesus Carranza, his son, Abelardo, and Ignacio Peralt, member of his staff, were executed by General Santibanez, former chief of the Mexican constitutionalists, had telegraphed that he would send troops to recover the body.

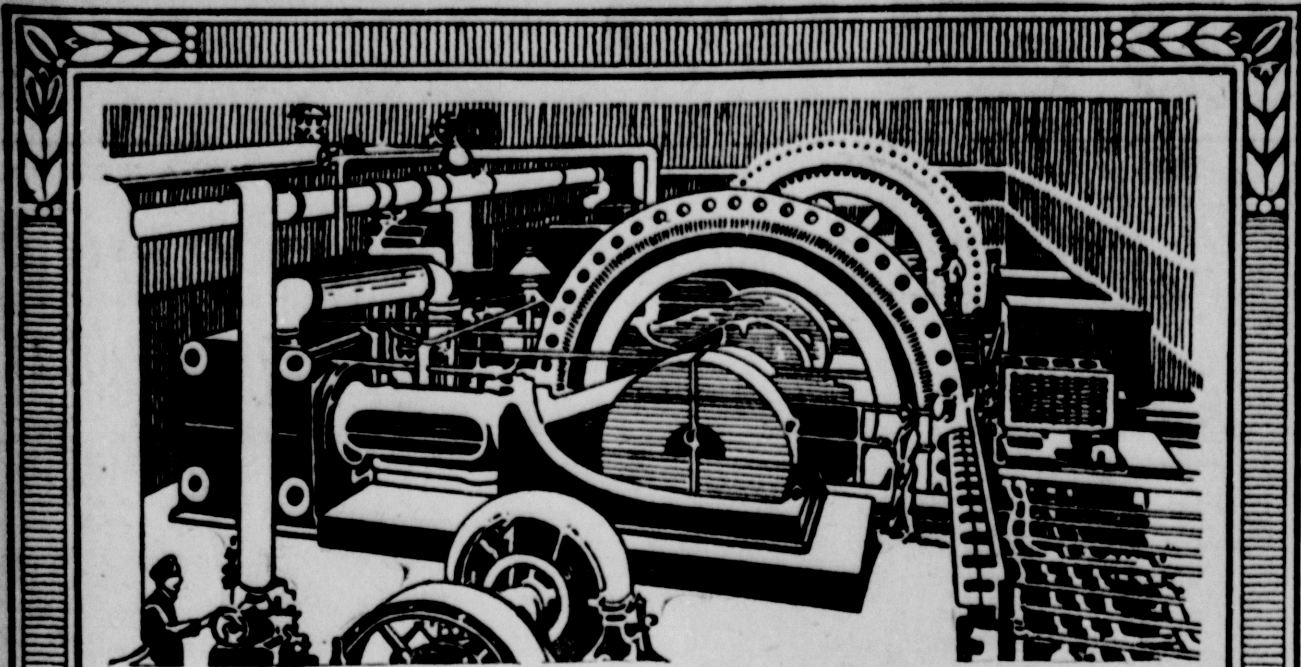

General Jesus Carranza and his staff were taken prisoners by conventional troops recently near San Antonio and his staff, according to reports, were executed immediately. Jesus Carranza, his son, Abelardo, and Peralt, a relative, were held prisoners at that time by Santibanez, who had thrown his forces to the Zapata contingent.

For the loss of two fingers, J. S. Gould demands $25,000 damages in his suit against the Katy railroad, filed yesterday in the Seventy-fourth district court. DRY SCALY TETTER COVERED ARM

Began on Fingers in Watery Pimples. Itched and Burned Severely. Eyes Began to Swell. Used Cuticura. Hand, Arm and Face Smooth.

R. F. D. No. 2, Moore, S. C.—"When the trouble first began my fingers were covered with fine watery pimples which itched and burned very severely. Finally my arm was covered and after a while my eyes began to swell. It was very hard to find my way for a while. My hand and arm would often crack open and bleed. The more I would rub them the more they would itch. The tetter looked dry and scaly. I could not put my hands in water for if I did they would crack open and bleed, after drying. "I was treated for quite a while but it did not do me any good. I tried all kinds of fine salves but found no relief in them. Finally someone told me to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I did and now all the scales are gone and my hand, arm and face are as smooth as ever. I owe all my cure to Cuticura Soap and Ointment." (Signed) Charlie Floyd, October 5, 1914.

MORGAN TESTIFIES BEFORE COMMISSION CLOTHES at 1-2

WALL ST. WIZARD OF FINANCE TALKS BEFORE INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS BOARD.

JOHN MITCHELL ON STAND

Former President of United Mine Workers Discusses Workmen's Compensation.

New York, Feb. 1.—J. P. Morgan, testifying today at the inquiry being conducted by the federal commission on industrial relations into the great philanthropic foundations and the cause of industrial unrest, denied that his banking firm dominated half of the railroads in the United States. The denial was called forth by a statement attributed to Samuel Untermyer, when the latter was a witness before the commission that his banking firm had virtually controlled the railroads.

"We certainly do not control half of the roads," Mr. Morgan asserted. He added with a laugh: "I don't know anything about Kuhn, Loeb & company's business, but Mr. Untermyer was certainly wrong."

It was Mr. Morgan's first appearance as spokesman for the vast financial firm of Morgan & company. When Mr. Morgan arrived at the hearing John Mitchell, former president of the United Mine Workers of America, and now a member of the New York State Workmen's Compensation commission, was on the stand. Mr. Mitchell testified regarding conditions among the miners of Colorado and Pennsylvania and characterized as "simply absurd" the Rockefeller plan of settling labor troubles in Colorado.

Mr. Morgan confessed his lack of knowledge regarding labor conditions in the corporations of which he is a director.

The officers of corporations, as executive officials, were responsible for labor conditions among the employees, Mr. Morgan declared. He was in favor of the "open shop" and considered that in labor disputes the employer should "play the part of any decent man." Philanthropic foundations had done considerable good, he believed.

Commissioner Weinstock asked Mr. Morgan for suggestions as to legislation that congress might be requested to enact to better relations between employers and employees.

Solving Cotton Problem.

Rising Star, Feb. 1.—Farmers of the Rising Star section seem in a fair way to solve the cotton problem for themselves, simply by having something else to sell. Nance Bros. of this place recently advertised that they were going to load a poultry car last Saturday with chickens and they were literally swamped, and will ship two car loads instead of one. Recently a car load of hogs shipped by the Higginbotham Mercantile company from here topped the Fort Worth market for the week.

Wind at Hearne.

Hearne, Feb. 1.—Wind of great velocity accompanied by a heavy down-pour of rain reached Hearne about 1 o'clock Sunday morning. Considerable damage was done to the ice factory, compress and one of the oil mills. Roofs on several business houses were blown off; several hog houses, barns, fences and trees were blown down.

Old-Time Cold Cure—Drink Tea!

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once. It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.

SENATE AGAIN TAKES UP SHIPPING FIGHT

AFTER ARMISTICE OVER SUNDAY, TUSSELE OVER BILL RESUMES, STRONGER.

CLARKE MOVES TO RECOMMIT

Motion Followed by Effort to Table, Which Fails—Reed Takes Floor.

DAY IN CONGRESS.

Senate. Fight on administration ship bill resumed by republicans. Senator Clarke of Arkansas moved to recommit the ship purchase bill for revision. Motions to adjourn and to table the motion to recommit defeated, democrats opposing the bill voting with the republicans. Senator Reed of Missouri bitterly assailed democrats for deserting the majority. Democratic leaders decided to adjourn with motion to recommit pending and hold conference Tuesday morning. Adjourned at 6:30 a. m. to noon Tuesday.

House.

Miscellaneous bills considered. Passed bill to establish mine experiment stations in public land states and Alaska and to provide for mine safety stations. Estimates submitted asking for $400,000 for pensions and other allowances under new coast guard law. Representative Hamlin introduced bill to provide "elective compensation" for employees in interstate commerce. Adjourned at 6:10 p. m. to 11 a. m. tomorrow.

Washington, Feb. 1.—

Nine democrats in the senate today joined an alliance with the republicans in an unexpected attempt to recommit the government ship purchase bill.

The sudden revolt turned in a twinkling an administration advantage into a defensive, which tonight appeared almost hopeless to many democratic leaders.

Forced to fight for the very life of the proposed measure, the democrats succeeded in adjourning the senate with the motion pending to send the bill back to the committee. A party caucus immediately was called for tomorrow morning.

Senator Clarke of Arkansas sprang the surprise when he rose while Senator William Alden Smith of Michigan was concluding a long speech against the bill and asked him to yield for a motion. The senator yielded and Senator Clarke, introducing his remarks with an appeal for consideration of other legislation, moved to send back the ship bill.

The legislative pandemonium that followed has not been witnessed in the senate in many years. Senators poured from their desks rooms to the chamber. The rush from the republican cloak room was even more immediate, as they had been forewarned. As soon as administration leaders could catch their breath Senator Fletcher, in charge of the bill, made a point of order against the motion, which Vice President Marshall sustained. Senator Clarke appealed and the chair was overruled and Senator Clarke's appeal sustained, 47 to 37. Nine democrats voted with the republicans. The motion to recommit was pending when the senate adjourned until noon tomorrow.

Against the ruling of the chair, Bankhead of Alabama, Camden, Kentucky; Clarke, Arkansas; Hardwick, Georgia; Bryan, Florida; Hitchcock, Nebraska; O'Gorman, New York; Smith, Georgia, and Vandeman of Mississippi. As soon as the record of this vote had been cleared, Senator Stone was recognized. The chamber was in confusion as the Missourian, who has voted by the bill through the bitter struggle of the last two weeks, surveyed the assemblage for a moment. With a gesture toward his own side of the aisle, Senator Stone declared:

"In order that democrats may have a conference and that the republicans and their allies may hold a conference, I move that the senate do now adjourn."

The motion was immediately put and there was a loud chorus of "noes." On a roll call the motion to adjourn was voted by a vote of 49 to 36. Senator Stone then moved that the bill be laid on the table and this, too, was lost by a vote of 44 to 42, seven democrats voting with the republicans, and Senator LaFollette aligning himself with the democratic minority.

Democrats who opposed the motion to table were Bankhead, Camden, Clarke, Hardwick, Hitchcock, O'Gorman and Vandeman.

These seven, it subsequently developed, had conferred early in the day and determined to break the deadlock with a view of either to material revision of the measure or entirely sidetracking it, at least insofar as the present session is concerned. This brought the motion to recommit squarely before the senate, when Senator Reed of Missouri was recognized and began arraigning his colleagues who had revolted and republicans who had opposed the bill.

"I congratulate the hoary old ship trust monopoly," he said, "on the fact that it appears still to possess in this day a general vigor to invade the democratic side of the chamber and find votes in its support."

While Senator Reed was speaking, republican senators exulted while democratic leaders rushed hurriedly in and out of committee room conferences to determine on a course of action. They counted noses, figuring on absentees and could not see a way through the difficulty. Some sought conferences with progressive republicans. Senator Norris, who had offered amendments several days before which would strengthen the permanency of the proposed amendment enterprise, and senators who offered to accept his amendments that they came a few hours too late. Amendments will be considered in the democratic caucus tomorrow. The caucus also will endeavor to find a way to get the republican progress-

SOUTHERN POLICE TEST VITALITAS

How Some of the "Finest" in Various Southern Cities Are Helped by Vitalitas.

It may not be generally suspected but it is true that the police of Southern cities, like those everywhere else, sometimes have indigestion, rheumatism, debility, etc. Many of them are finding freedom from such ills in Vitalitas, as indicated by the following statements:

Birmingham, Ala.: C. H. LaRue, City Detective Dept.—"Vitalitas is wonderful. I recommend it to those suffering stomach trouble. I do not consider there is a remedy on the market that will touch Vitalitas."

Nashville, Tenn.: Police Sergeant Geo. L. Smith—"I am suffering with kidney and bladder troubles. I have been a user of Vitalitas. It has taken hold of my affliction in a manner that convinced me it will cure me."

Nashville, Tenn.: "Everybody is talking about Vitalitas. It slowly drove my indigestion away. My stomach is in the best condition."

New Orleans, La.: Mr. James Geedpaiss—"I am suffering with constipation and general debility."

Every drop of Vitalitas is beneficial. It is pure and just as Nature made it. It will be found wonderfully effective for disorders of stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels and blood. Get Vitalitas today at Powers-Kelly Drug Co. For sale by retail druggists.

ive support without recommitting the bill. If this fails and the bill is re-committed, many of its most sanguine supporters insist that the measure is dead for this session.

Senator Fletcher, when Senator Reed had concluded, moved adjournment, which was voted.

Democratic leaders tonight were canvassing for the situation. Absent democratic senators who may return tomorrow are Smith of South Carolina, and Lea of Tennessee. Republicans absent who are expected to reappear are Penrose and Goff. Senator Williams said tonight that the most optimistic prognostication on a probable line upon the motion to recommit the bill left the democrats one vote short.

The revolting democrats, it was asserted tonight, would demand that the ship bill be dropped and that attention be turned to appropriation measures and other important legislation. Despite the feeling of some of his colleagues, Majority Leader Kern tonight would not admit defeat and in announcing the call for the caucus he declared, "We will pass the bill yet."

BAN ON LIQUOR ADS.

One of the strongest evidences of the growth of temperance and prohibition sentiment in this country is furnished in the fact that at least one-fourth of the daily papers of the United States now refuse to publish liquor advertisements, as indicated in the article printed on this page yesterday, giving the names of all the papers that have defined their position in a letter to the temperance headquarters of the Methodist Episcopal church. Letters of inquiry were addressed to every daily paper in the United States whose name appears in the leading newspaper directory for 1914 and the investigation was as general as one of that nature could well be.

Newspapers generally reflect the sentiment of their readers, the number of them that take steps in advance of the views held by the majority of their readers being offset, perhaps, by the number that fail to keep pace with the sentiment of their readers. The journals that have placed the ban on the liquor advertisement are among the best in the country and their position indicates very clearly that the best people of the nation have come to regard the liquor business as one that ought not to be encouraged. And when a majority of all the people come to this view—and the day will not be long—this majority will demand that a business that ought not to be advertised in reputable journals ought not to exist at all.

And these papers which have barred liquor advertisements from their columns form the best advertising medium for other articles demanded for household consumption. If a paper refuses to let liquor be advertised in its columns it has a basis on which to appeal to the best moral sentiment of a community and it is the people of high moral sentiment who have the greatest purchasing power and who expend their money for those things that are really worth while. So the publication of the list of papers that have placed liquor ads under the ban will serve a further purpose than that of showing the growth of temperance and prohibition sentiment, that of furnishing to the advertisers of the country a list of the daily papers that place principle above the dollar, and that can be welcomed freely into the home of the best people without a fear that the innocent boys or girls will gather from its columns a suggestion that might lead them astray.

Officials of the department of agriculture at Washington believe that sportsmen may unintentionally violate the provisions of the federal migratory bird law, which it is the purpose of the government to enforce rigidly. Under the provisions of this law no water fowl can be shot in the northern breeding zone after January 15, except in New Jersey, where the season extends to February 1. In most of the southern or winter zone, including this section, the season closes February 1. These regulations were proclaimed on October 1, 1914. No change has since been made in them, and no change is likely to be made until the constitutionality of the law, which has been attacked, has been passed on by the United States supreme court. The officials of the United States department of agriculture, who are entrusted with the enforcement of these laws, are anxious that these facts be impressed upon the people because it is the intention to investigate all reports of violations made to the department's inspectors and wardens and to prosecute all such violations in the federal courts. Should the federal act be upheld in its final test, it is pointed out that the prosecutions may be instituted at any time within three years of the offense.

THE PENITENTIARY SYSTEM.

We have not been so optimistic as to hope that the present legislative session could end without the inevitable biennial discussion and overhauling of our penitentiary system, but we did indulge the hope that this year's airing of its affairs would reveal only a deficit due to unavoidable mishaps in the operation of large enterprises. The attention that has been given to the system in recent years by the legislature and the governor had, we fondly hoped, eliminated the crude abuses and mistakes that in other years had made our state prisons not only financial failures, but moral pestholes.

The preliminary observations of members of the legislative investigating committee have shattered our hopes. It appears from the statement of these investigators that the state prisons and farms are not only heavily in debt, but that they have been inefficiently managed and still abound in abuses.

It seems to us inexcusable that this important department of the state government should have an accounting system so archaic as, in the words of Representative Fuller, renders it "impossible for even the commissioners to determine the condition of the system." All that appears to be known by anybody connected with the system is that it is in debt and is getting deeper in debt every month. Such a condition of affairs is inexcusable. The poorest business man among those charged with the administration of the system ought to know that among the prime requisites to success in the management of any business is a system of accounting which shows the cost of operating each unit of the business and that will reveal at a glance the true financial condition. No satisfactory excuse can be offered for not installing such a system.

The fact that the penitentiary commission has sold thousands of head of hogs and bought hundreds of thousands of pounds of bacon shows a lack of comprehension of the simplest rules of good management.

The list of faults of management reported by Representative Fuller and his associates on the house committee indicate a total lack of business judgment in administration rather than fundamental errors in the system itself. We are pleased to note the absence of reports of cruel treatment of prisoners, but we regret that one of the members of the committee is disposed of a favor a return to the use of the "bat." We observe, however, that he charges idleness of prisoners to lack of work and not to refusal to work. We do not believe the efficiency of prison labor will be increased by the use of brutal forms of punishment and if the bat should be reinstated as an instrument of punishment not two years would pass before we would have another scandal such as stirred the state a few years ago and which led to the abolition of this brutal form of punishment.

Governor Ferguson is a successful business man and farmer and we are looking to him to put the penitentiaries upon a sound basis of administration, and we are expecting more from such exertions on the part of the governor than we are from revolutionary legislation by the legislature.

TIRED OF THAW CASE.

The Houston Post, commenting upon the change in attorneys in the Thaw case, expresses the opinion that the scandal of that case will not continue much longer, due to the fact that the grafting lawyers have quit the case and that the slayer of Stanford White is now represented by men of such eminent professional and personal standing as John B. Stanchfield, Philander Knox, former secretary of state, former Governor Stone and Morgan J. O'Brien.

And we feel sure the country feels just as much relief from the fact that the New York attorney general has dismissed William Travers Jerome from the prosecution as from the discontinuation of the grafting lawyers from the defense. The whole country has felt, we believe, that it has been a personal spite rather than the vindication of the law or the protection of society that has induced Jerome to make his spectacular and unrelenting fight upon Thaw, and the country has become just as sick of that as it has of the efforts of the lawyers of the defense to get hold of a goodly portion of the Thaw thousands.

Few if any people believe that Harry K. Thaw is insane now, whatever may have been his state of mind at the time he slew Stanford White or at the time he was sentenced to Matteawan. But he is to stand trial again to determine his sanity, and with the lawyers that represent him now in charge of his case and with Jerome dismissed from the prosecution, we do not believe there will be the conflict of testimony on the part of alleged experts that has marked previous trials, the testimony of the experts taking the direction they were paid to give it.

If the people of New York are afraid of Thaw the court might give him his freedom conditioned upon his remaining outside the state. And while other sections of the country are not inviting Thaw to come into their midst they are at least not afraid of him as Jerome has represented the New Yorkers are.

At the rate the legislature is advancing measures to amend the constitution it looks as if we may be called on to vote a four-foot ballot of constitutional amendments. Will not some progressive statesman take on an amendment authorizing the publication and distribution of an official pamphlet explaining the measures and containing brief arguments for and against them?

Dr. Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard University, and general adviser to all the people on all subjects, says the workmen and their families eat too much, but says not a word about anybody drinking too much.

FARMERS NOT TO BLAME.

Frank B. Connolly of San Francisco, president of the National Association of Retail Grocers, charges American farmers with responsibility for the high cost of living. "Millers are offering $1.40 per bushel for wheat and can get very little of it," he said, "although the farmers' granaries and elevators are bulging with vast supplies."

Mr. Connolly is mistaken both as to his facts and his conclusions. The granaries of farmers are not bulging with wheat. The bulk of the wheat remaining in the United States today is held by dealers and speculators. Many farmers contracted the sale of their crops before the war was declared and the price advanced. Most of the others have disposed of their holdings since that date.

But suppose the farmers did hold their wheat for higher prices, which everybody knew were bound to come. Would not Mr. Connolly have done likewise? And who can blame them for not selling at $1.40 when the price for May delivery is $1.52? Why should farmers sell wheat to the millers at $1.40 to be made into flour and sold in May on a basis of a price for wheat of $1.52?

The American farmer is not responsible for the high cost of living. The average farmer is not prosperous; less than half of them own the farms they cultivate; a large percentage of them are in debt; they are not high livers and there is not much luxury in the average farm home. Taking farm products as a whole, the American farmer receives only 46 per cent of the price paid for them by the ultimate consumer. Fifty-four per cent of the price paid by consumers for the products of the farm goes to pay the transportation charges and the profits of middlemen. How foolish, then, for one of these middlemen to place the blame for the high cost of living on the farmers?

LEAVE THE STUDENTS OUT.

Faculty members of a state educational institution assembled the student body last week and pointed out to them the alleged injurious effect upon the institution of certain pending legislation and urged them to organize for its defeat.

While conceding the best of intentions to these professors, we do not hesitate to condemn their action in the strongest terms as calculated to injure the students under their charge and to react harmfully against the very institution they would serve. There may be room for difference of opinion on the propriety of faculty members of state educational institutions participating in an organized effort to influence legislation, but there cannot be two opinions of the propriety of dragging students into such a contest.

Students are sent to school to study and fit themselves for the duties and responsibilities of life. Apart from the effect upon their studies of participation in an active political campaign, such activities have a tendency to thrust them into political life before they are fitted by maturity of judgment for such responsibilities.

The effect of organizing students into political clubs cannot fail to react harmfully on the institution that permits it. Legislators and the public generally will resent such interference in public affairs by the state's wards and the cry will be quickly raised that our educational institutions are striving to build up political machines to control the politics of the state.

Let us keep the students of state schools out of politics.

Robert Jones is the prime mover in organizing the marketing co-operative movement in this country, and is justly entitled to great credit for his clear-headed comprehension of every proposition and every detail connected with the subject of marketing. The prosperity which is bound to ensue within a few years from his example and influence will revolutionize this country. In brief, the Vanguard regards this movement for local co-operation the biggest thing that has ever been done for this country.—Comanche Vanguard. You are exactly right, Brother Russell, and we hope the day is not far distant when every other county in the state will emulate the example of Comanche and reap the benefits that are bound to accrue from co-operative diversification and marketing.

When this war began England had 5000 merchant vessels and Germany had 2000, while about six vessels in the foreign trade flew our flag, and yet it is urged that the ship purchase measure will restrict private enterprise.—Beaumont Enterprise. In this case the "private enterprise" happens to consist of a small group of enormous wealth and great influence, hence the volume of the outcry against the bill.

Congressman Dies says some good things sometimes, but when he complains because "congress is not the leader but the follower of public opinion" he complains of a condition which we hope will never change. When congress ceases to follow public opinion it will become the master and not the servant of the people.

The Fort Worth Record thinks it would "be a good thing for the state of Texas if no member of a legislature were permitted to speak on the floor of either house more than once in each twenty-four hours, and then for only five minutes." What's the idea, to fatten the statute book or kill off the legislators?

It was necessary to call out troops in Rome to suppress a mob that tried to break up a meeting of citizens who are trying to keep their country out of the European war. From which it appears that the war lords are not the only persons afflicted with the war lust.

TEXAS ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE INDEPENDENT

AND IT SHOULD REMAIN THUS, IN ITS CONTROL, DECLARES DR. J. B. GAMBRELL.

REPLIES TO DR. CRANFILL

Recent Editor of Baptist Standard Says He Will Not Support League If Dominated by Outsiders.

(Dallas News.)

I read with interest Dr. Cranfill's interview published in the News a week ago. I specially commend his frankness in saying he did not know what the trouble is about. His interview, throughout, fully justifies the statement.

The interview was prefaced by setting out the fact that I am a brother to the superintendent of the State League. The use made of this fact leads me to say that Dr. J. H. Gambrell was called from his pastorate in Marlin to his present work without my suggestion or vote. He is an experienced anti-saloon fighter, having given ten years in Mississippi to the work. Pretty much everywhere he has lived he has left a dry spot. I suppose he was called to his present work because he was known to be safe and efficient. I know him well enough to say for him that he wants the issues involved settled on their merits, without the least reference to him. I do, too.

Dr. Cranfill's fine imagination led him to see the waving of "the bloody shirt" at a conference to which he refers in his interview. If there was any blood at that meeting, it was in Dr. Cranfill's eye. There was not a shred of that dilapidated garment waved. It is the habit of some minds in the south to suppose that any objection to anything coming from the north is "waving the bloody shirt." It is not "waving the bloody shirt" to say that in order to be successful in the work we are in it is absolutely necessary to have respect to the sentiments of the people on many related questions, and to work the people everywhere with the grain, and not against the grain.

Mr. Strong, who was said to represent the broad view of things, had an unhappy way in the past of paying little attention to the ingrained feelings of people, and for that reason, in the Poinsett-Johnson campaign, the effort to turn the Anti-Saloon league into its primary principles and make it partisan in a personal fight, did very great damage to the league. In discussing that episode, the expression, "Ohio corporation," occurred. I was not pleased with the partisan attitude of the league superintendent at that time, and deeply regretted the characterization of the league as "an Ohio corporation." In the heated atmosphere of the time both things did the league immense harm, and it has taken years to grow away from the mistakes of that period. Wise management avoids needless frictions and strife. We are not hunting fights; we want success. This must come by well directed effort.

Political Management.

As to the political management of the league, I say now what I said then, that if the league is to hold the confidence of the churches and pastors, and the support of a vast number of good men, there must be no suspicion that it is being managed by astute politicians for partisan purposes. I don't mind saying here what I wanted to say in Colonel Love's presence, that he has a well established reputation as being an astute politician and a party manager as Dr. Rankin has for being a Methodist, or I for being a Baptist, and I said then, and say now, that if there is any suspicion in church circles that the league is being manipulated by party managers it will have to go out of the churches in Texas.

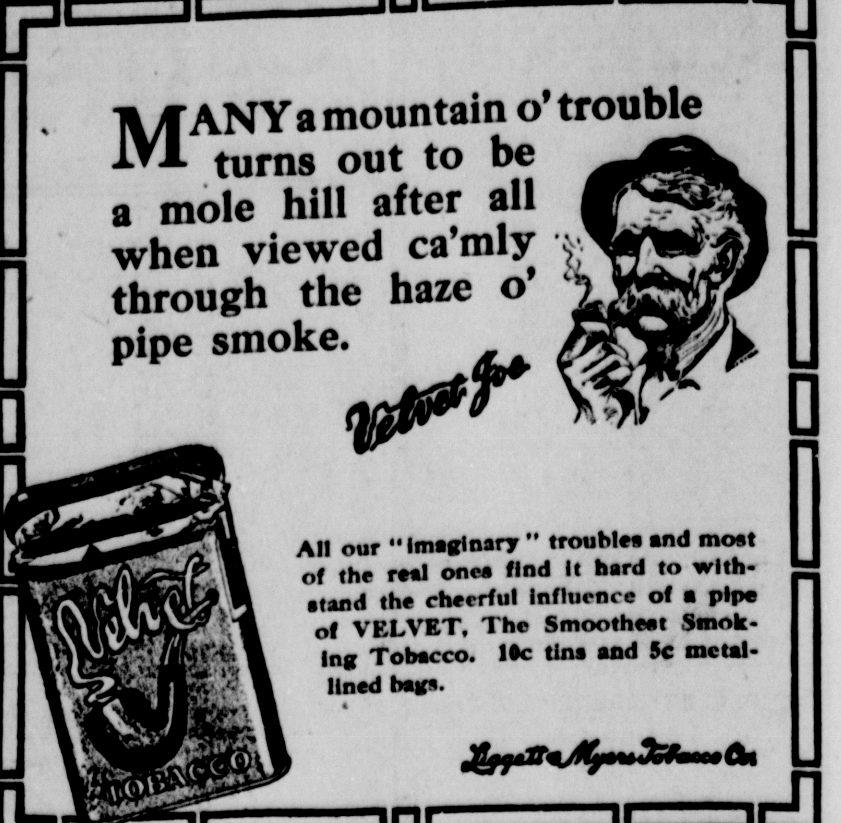

Dr. Cranfill does not know what the trouble is about. I will first say what it is not about. There is not a particle of trouble between the Anti-Saloon league and the national league, so far as co-operation is concerned; at least, on the state league side. Every one of us is in for co-operation, straight up and down. The two leagues are co-operating right now to bring to Texas a group of national speakers. They did the same thing last year. I have always been for introducing in the south the best prohibition speakers from the north. Most of the prohibition leaders of the north I have known personally, and co-operated with them. There is no trouble about co-operation. Not a bit.

Nor is the trouble about a vigorous Anti-saloon league policy in Texas. We are all for the publishing house on right principles. I deeply sympathize with the owners in their wish to turn over the Home and State to a financially strong publishing concern. I can think of very few things which could serve us so well as a strong publishing plant in the southwest. To bring out Anti-saloon literature indigenous to this section of the country for it. I am anxious to have a very much stronger program than has been suggested, or has been possible in the past. I need not now say what it is.

What is the Trouble?

What is the trouble about? It is all at a single point. The American Anti-saloon league, with headquarters at Westerville, Ohio, does not want co-operation. It wants absolute control of all the internal interests of all the states in the Union, as those interests are affected by the anti-saloon work. The new constitution, as adopted, does away with state league. Instead of a state league, the state organization is "a department of the national league." The national league is to have control over the state organizations is absolutely in the hands of the organization centered in Ohio. I will not discuss the constitution piece-meal. That is the effect of it, and it is so intended. The difference between the state league and the new department idea is that it substitutes absolutism in control for co-operation. As far as the church life and the political life of any state affects the interests of the people, and so far as these interests are affected by the league work, it gives a centralized organization, no matter in what state centralized, absolute control in all the states. I would oppose such a scheme if headquarters were in Dallas.

I have distinct objections to the new constitution, which the headquarters committee of the state league refused to adopt. The new plan is unwise and unworkable. It does not recognize the well known and ineradicable differences in the sentiments, habits of thought and ways of doing things in the different parts of the United States. No national organization can be operated successfully that does not do that. There are differences in the religious thinking and ways of doing things in the north and south, and it is not bloody-shirtism to say so. Whoever will not recognize these differences in the south, and as the leader of a great movement will lead it into the ditch. The great denominations of the country have their southern and northern bodies. It is useless to discuss how these differences came, or whether they ought to exist. I think many of them ought not. But they do exist, and no man is competent to lead a great moral organization affecting the Christian life of the whole country who does not recognize the facts.

National B. Y. P. U.

I was in the formation of the National Baptist Young People's union. I represented the southern part of it. It was but a little while until difficulties developed so radical that, in order to make the union grow in the south, it was absolutely necessary to have a southern B. Y. P. U. There is not a single great interest in either one of the great denominations of this country that can be operated in every section to the other without flexibility and adjustments.

And take another more recent event. The Baraca-Philathea class movement, organized in the north, is everywhere to control the movement everywhere from a single center. It held a patent on the name. When no flexibility could be introduced into its working, the Baptists, several millions strong in the south, found names for their classes and separated from the patented movement.

The trend is all that way with all the great religious bodies. It may be regarded as settled that southern churches will not develop in the future, but manage from their own state centers. The adoption of the new constitution means inevitably, I think, that the general convention of Texas and the Southern Baptist convention, with other church bodies, will drop the league; and I don't want that to happen.

In the next place, the league as organized now goes on the monstrous and impossible supposition that an organization centered at Westerville, Ohio, can know more about the states, and can project a great movement in the states better than the people who live in them, and who have the most vital concern in the well being of their commonwealths. An executive committee of sixteen good men in authority, no matter how appointed, does not change the facts. It would be a ridiculous assumption to suppose that an organization in Dallas, Tex., could handle the internal affairs of Ohio better than the men who live there, and the most distressing thing to me about it is that the leadership in this new movement, which can control the local situations in forty-eight states from one central point better than the people who live in the states can do it.

Will Divide Forces.

Again, there is absolute certainty that pressing this new constitution, and its attendant evils, all over the United States will divide the nation. Dr. Cranfill and myself have worked together along more lines, in harmony, on the prohibition question, and almost any two other men in the south, and here, at the very start, we are utterly put asunder. He is a enthusiastic for turning the most vital internal interests of Texas over to the control of an organization domiciled in the north, and here, at the very start, we are utterly put asunder. He is a enthusiastic for turning the most vital internal interests of Texas over to the control of an organization domiciled in the north, and here, at the very start, we are utterly put asunder.

There are other objections. The new constitution runs straight across the face of the American people, and especially of the southern people. There is innate, ineradicable, ingrained hostility in the southern mind, at least, against any combination of outside men undertaking to control the internal interests of the states. The whole thinking of the American people is around the state as a unit, and a sovereign. For the purposes of this article, it does not matter an atom whether the doctrine is the right doctrine. Anybody who knows conditions throughout the south knows that that is a deep-seated conviction. There is not a possibility, as I think that, after mature deliberation and discussion, any state in the south will agree to build up an organization in the state to turn the affairs of the state over to a remote organization which the state cannot control, and I am frank to say that I don't believe any body in any state in the Union ought to give a cent to or take a cent from a movement any such unwise and dangerous scheme. The democratic party of the nation would not hold together through such a campaign organized on such principles. Why court disintegration and defeat?

Difficulty in Way.

Again, there is a practical difficulty in the way. This new constitution will burden every campaign in which the Anti-Saloon league takes a part in such matters as this it is my habit of mind to think ahead and consider how objections to such a measure may be made out in the country among the common people, and answered so as to hold them with us. The common people are the ones who are to make triumph this movement in any state. They have the votes. We cannot put in the hands of saloon men a cudgel more their liking than to adopt this constitution. I know exactly what they will say. They will say that this league is so organized as to take over the management of the internal affairs of the state, and that the state is to be run in its vital interests by an organization in Ohio. And when they say it they will tell the truth and we will be whipped hands down. I think as an absolutely sure thing, that in the discussions to follow this revolution in league circles the burden of an impossible defense will lose us many a campaign. I will not try to defend a thing which in my deepest convictions I know is wrong.

Still another objection. I have been from the first, a friend of the Anti-saloon league, state and national. It has seemed to me that in the simple organization, before this new constitution was adopted, it furnished the best means of mobilizing the anti-saloon sentiment of America, in order to make America dry. Now what is going to happen under this new constitution, is, I believe, a situation which will make it impossible to mobilize the sentiment of the American Anti-saloon league from many of the states; I think every one of the southern states, within a reasonable time. The movement has already begun. Mississippi, under pressure direct from the league, adopted the new constitution. I suspect that some will think that here was "the waving of a very bloody shirt." Not a bit of it. I went from Texas over to Mississippi and gave my influence among my old prohibition comrades there to win them to Anti-saloon league work. The men in the league are not a very bloody shirt. They are college builders; they are among the great men of the commonwealth. They stand in the front rank of the great denominations of the state. They have woven their lives into every fine in that commonwealth. They were in the beginning of the anti-saloon movement in Mississippi, and helped to build it up from the very ground. Their ground of objection is one that is going to dominate in thoughtful circles everywhere. They will not turn over the management of their internal affairs to an outside organization; and they are right in principle at that point.

Bishop's Position.

Bishop Charles B. Galloway, my long-time co-laborer in Mississippi, who was born, lived and died in Mississippi, never would agree to organize a league in that state, basing his objection on the ground that the very thing which he was in the new constitution would ultimately be undertaken and prove disastrous to prohibition. Not till after his death was the Mississippi Anti-Saloon league organized. I have wanted most earnestly to see to it that every one in the league; to bring to bear the more conservative, religious, moral and prohibition forces of the south on the national league work, in order to moderate the more radical and less successful forces of the north. By all the hopes that I have cherished along that line, I deplore the present unwise, and, I think, ruinous move.

I have a friend who has been in the line one way or another, nearly all of his life. He has been told that it was that in any situation he got into he was soon in trouble. He had a ready and comprehensive answer. He said: "My habit is to act, and to let it over afterward." We had better think of it that way. Dr. Cranfill instances the fact that Virginia has gone dry. I instance the other fact that this distracting and divisive constitution was not put up to Virginia until that victory was won, and, as far as I know, it has not been acted on yet. Alabama has just won a signal victory, making that state dry by overwhelming majorities in the two houses of the legislature. They have work can be informed, adopted this constitution.

Must Be Adjustable.

If this organization, concerning which I have cherished such high hopes, is to be useful, it must be adjustable. It must accept from state forces everywhere co-operation and cease to demand absolute control in state affairs.

Every state must grow its civilization from within. The people who make any commonwealth are its own citizens. They may get help where they can, but not a thing powerful in any state can be imposed from without. What Texas must have for efficiency in the prohibition fight, as in everything else vital, is an organization rooted in the soil, representative of and responsive to the sentiments of the people of Texas. The revolutionary constitution of the American Anti-Saloon league is the most stupendous blunder I ever knew perpetrated by intelligent men.

I am associated on the headquarters committee of the state league and try to save our people from committing a blunder which will hurt us indefinitely. I regret it is so long.

Interstate Commerce Bill.

Washington, Feb. 1.—The senate bill to make carriers in interstate commerce liable without regard to limitation of liability for loss or damage of property caused by them was favorably reported today by the house commerce committee. The bill makes exception in cases where property is hidden by wrapping or boxing and where commodities are subject to rates approved by the interstate commerce commission, dependent upon the value of property shipped.

When You Wash Your Hair Don't Use Soap

Most soaps and prepared shampoo contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is just plain moistened coconut oil, which is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap, and beats soaps or anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.

EXTENSION OF MOODY ROAD WILL BE MADE

A two-mile extension of the Moody road was ordered yesterday by the county commissioners' court, another survey decided on for the Walkers Crossing road, changes of offices in the court house to accommodate the Seventy-fourth district court made, and the proposition of helping bring a specialist on organizing canning clubs over McLennan county considered.

The extension of the Moody road will run it within six miles of that city, instead of eight miles, as it is at present. There seemed to be some misunderstanding as to where the road should stop and the commissioners did their best to straighten out the tangle.

Two routes had been surveyed for the Walkers Crossing road. Delegations appeared yesterday advocating both routes and a third delegation, which urged that an entirely new route be taken. County Engineer R. J. Windrow was instructed to make a survey of the third route and to present it to the court at the next meeting, when the three will be compared.

The McLennan Crossing road will be paved with macadam as far as the Frather farm. This was the original plan, but an effort had been made to change the nature of the construction. Secretary E. F. Drake of the Chamber of Commerce and J. F. Quicksall, federal agricultural agent, appeared before the court with a proposition to employ an expert to take charge of the organizing of girls' canning clubs. Enough other funds are available so that the services of a competent woman could be secured for an additional $225. The commissioners took no action on the matter.

lun, Austin—J. A. Patton, Wash. T. Medaris, Travis county.

John F. Olson of San Antonio, assistant district attorney for Bexar county.

An executive session will be held at 2 o'clock Tuesday to pass on these nominations.

The hearing on Darwin's bill to place interurban under the jurisdiction of the railroad commission was begun, but after Darwin had said he wanted a full hearing of both sides on this bill and W. A. Hanger of Fort Worth had asked that postponement be taken until interurban representatives from Waco, Dallas, Houston and elsewhere could get here, further hearing was set for Thursday morning, at which time it is expected night hearings will be ordered.

Col. A. R. McCollum, publisher of the Waco Tribune, will appear here tomorrow to be sworn in as a member of the senate from the McLennan-Falls and Milam district, having defeated H. C. Meyer of the Rockford for the place made vacant by H. B. Terrell's resignation.

Senator McNealus introduced a bill permitting consolidation of interurban railroad lines which adds to the interest in the bill by Senator Darwin to have this class of roads placed under the jurisdiction of the commission.

The bill by Senator Bailey of De Witt county, substituting electrocution for hanging as a mode of capital punishment, was passed finally, although Senator Wiley fought it vigorously and gave out a statement after the vote why he was against it. Senator Wiley wants to abolish the death penalty altogether.

Senator Clark's bill to abolish the state fire rating board will come up again for hearing Thursday and Friday. Senator Clark says he will have evidence to show that a slush fund was used to secure the Rockford for the place made vacant by H. B. Terrell's resignation.

Senator Lattimore's bill prohibiting the sale of narcotics was passed finally. The report of the house committee on investigation of Senator Lattimore's assertion that he left the system on a paying basis is questioned. Gross mismanagement will be charged in general. The committee, that which went to the farm and the A. & M. college, will make a number of recommendations, chief among which will be a thorough system of bookkeeping and the adoption of business methods in handling both farms and prisons.

The house committee on constitutional amendments recommended favorably the following amendments:

Abolishing the offices of tax assessor, tax collector and county treasurer and establishing the office of tax assessor and collector, providing for a graduated tax on unimproved lands held for speculative purposes; raising the ad valorem tax to 50c for school purposes.

The appropriation committee held a meeting and heard a number of representatives of various institutions and departments on items in the proposed appropriation bill. No definite action was taken.

Oil Regulation Bill.

Austin, Tex., Feb. 1.—Senator Bailey of Harris county introduced a bill providing for the regulation of oil pipe lines in the state of Texas. A petroleum commission is created to be composed of the attorney general, the commissioner of insurance and banking, and the commissioner of petroleum, the latter to be appointed by the governor and to receive a salary of $4,000 per annum. The commission is given the power to regulate the rates for gathering, storing and transporting oil and to establish reasonable rules and regulations for the government of the pipe lines, declared to be common carriers.

The pipe lines are required under the bill to publish rates and to maintain all necessary facilities for the receipt and delivery of oil of patrons. Discrimination is provided against. The bill is designed to meet the objections raised by the independent operators against the Texas company bill now pending in the senate. Strict penalties are provided for violations of the provisions of the act.

WHAT CATARRH IS

It has been said that every third person is troubled with catarrh in some form.

Science has shown that nasal catarrh indicates a weakened condition of the body; that the secretion of the mucous membranes are quickly affected, and local treatments in the form of snuffs and vapors do little, if any good.

To correct catarrh you should treat its cause by enriching your blood with its medicinal food and a building tonic, free from alcohol or any harmful drugs. Try it.

COZY.

"The Prince Chap"

Miss Besse Dainty opened her engagement at the Cozy theatre last night to the largest house she has yet had in Waco. "The Prince Chap" was the play, and the audience was very appreciative. The house itself did not look like the old Cozy. It has been entirely renovated and remodeled and is now one of the prettiest playhouses in the south.

As the different members of the cast appeared they were greeted with applause, for they have been here long enough now to have a multitude of friends and admirers among the theatre-goers. At the beginning of the third act, Miss Dainty was presented with a beautiful basket of flowers, which she acknowledged in her usual gracious manner.

The story of the play is filled with pathos and humor, being that of the ups and downs of an artist who has adopted a little child, and their trials until fortune at last smiled upon them, kept one either in tears or laughter. A treat is in store for those who missed last night's performance.

The orchestra was good and rendered some new and pleasing music. In fact, the initial performance of the Himmlein Players at the Cozy was an unqualified success in every detail.

Mrs. Rose Felner of Austin, representing the Humane society, pleaded for a humane method of capital punishment.

D. C. Giddings of Brenham, representing the cotton mills in defense of the amendment said that if this law becomes effective as written the mills will be inoperative. In all probability no definite action will be taken on the measure until tomorrow.

House Committee Meets.

Austin, Tex., Feb. 1.—The house committee on education held an executive session this morning for the purpose of considering the one-board bill relating to the control of the University of Texas and the A. & M. college. A decision was reached to hold a joint public meeting Tuesday evening of next week with the committee on constitutional amendments, at which time consideration will be given to the one-board bill and the separation resolution.

The house committee on constitutional amendments recommended favorably the following amendments:

Abolishing the offices of tax assessor, tax collector and county treasurer and establishing the office of tax assessor and collector, providing for a graduated tax on unimproved lands held for speculative purposes; raising the ad valorem tax to 50c for school purposes.

Y. M. B. L. Directors Will Meet Tonight

Plans for the entertainment of the state convention of the County Judges and Commissioners association, which meets here Thursday and Friday of this week, will be discussed tonight at the regular meeting of the Y. M. B. L. directors. Indications are that there will be a good sized attendance from over the state.

Details will also be worked out for the February general meeting week from tonight, which will be a union meeting with the Waco Ad. club, with the state Ad. club convention delegates as guests. A made-in-Waco luncheon is to be served and Richard H. Waldo, advertising counselor for the New York Tribune, will deliver an address.

All of the standing and special committees will make their reports tonight and several matters of importance will come up.

Claim Alfalfa Not Planted.

An action for $17,250 for breach of contract was filed in the Seventy-fourth district court yesterday by the Waco Land, Mining and Fuel company against J. C. Trotter. It is alleged that Trotter entered into a contract to seed 230 acres of land in Pecos county to alfalfa, that he did not do so, and that the land, which it is claimed, would have been worth $125 if sown, is only worth $59 an acre in its present position.

Value of Horse Sought.

Damages of $150 are being sought from the city of Waco by F. M. Longley, in a suit, the trial of which was commenced yesterday in the county court, growing out of the drowning of a horse in Providence Heights some months ago. The animal met its death in a pond said to have been formed by a heavy rain.

Finds Oil Vein.

Belton, Feb. 1.—Thomas Garrison, a well known farmer residing a few miles from Belton, while drilling a well on his place struck a small vein of oil at a depth of four hundred feet and will organize a company and prospect further. The discovery is located within a short distance of a well that was drilled for oil several years ago. After a considerable depth had been reached drilling operations were discontinued and the well capped. No explanation was made at the time by the owners. Mr. Garrison is convinced that oil exists under his farm and there are many more who share his belief.

How to Live and When to Die.
Professor Starr, Chicago University's expert on apes and things, says he expects to live to be 120 years old. His recipe for long life is very simple: "Just be placid, always smile and keep on the job all the time."

It may be doubted, though, whether years are the true measure of life. The best measure of life is experience—the things one has thought out and thus made his own; the feelings one has had, the lessons one has learned.

In themselves, a few years more or less count for little. Unless each day brings an interesting task, a contribution to experience, an addition to the sum of worldly knowledge or to spiritual insight and ripeness of outlook, of what value is it?

The mere routine of living, the chalking on life's scorecard of uneventful days—"vegetable existence"—is unimportant.

It is "keeping on the job" that counts—keeping alert, keeping interested, living always in the van of the progress of the times.

The time to die, could it be fixed by choice, is when living ceases to be growth; when it begins to become just dead weight loaded on the younger generation.—Exchange.

When You Have a Want, Think of The Morning News

Nothing is too small—and nothing is too great. The fact of the matter is, we frequently pass up some good money by overlooking the little things.

A Morning News Want Ad, ordinarily small in dimension nearly always has something big at the bottom.

Presently you'll strike one which, though it may not look very prepossessing, may uncover just the proposition you are searching for. You never can tell.

Read Thru Them

Prospective Advertisers--Sellers

How can you expect to put your proposition on the market if you sit in the darkness of silence and withhold it from the public? "Silence is golden," somebody said; but there is a time for all things, and the time for you to advertise is NOW.

NOW, while the iron is hot; NOW, while business is growing better; NOW, before someone else has taken advantage of the opportunity.

And the place for your ad is in The News—the newspaper with the large circulation; the newspaper which is read by many people in Waco and vicinity.

He Could.
A man walked into a barber shop and removed his hat and coat. He was evidently in a hurry.

"Can you shave me if I do not remove my collar?" he asked, impatiently.

"Yes, sir," said the obliging barber. The man took his seat in the chair, and the barber prepared for business.

As he surveyed his customer he noted that the hair had all gone from the top of his head and that his hairdo was limited to a fringe of hair above the neck. Then the barber spoke, as he drew the cloth around his customer's neck and fastened it at the back.

"And I think I could cut your hair if you did not remove your hat," Columbus Dispatch.

Valuable Discovery.
Charles H. Britting, proprietor of the New York actors' restaurant known as the Little Hall of Fame, took a keen interest in popular trends and movements of all kinds. Mr. Britting thought little of scientific management and efficiency engineering. He said one day of an efficiency engineer:

"Blank is a fool, and I thought he'd go broke. But, by jingo, the fellow has deceived me. He has discovered a labor-saving device, and his address will be Easy street from now on."

"Good boy, Blank," said an actor, "and what labor-saving device has he discovered?" "An elderly widow," Mr. Britting answered, "an elderly widow with a million who has consented to marry him."—New York Tribune.

CITY COMMISSION APPROPRIATES $100

MONEY SET ASIDE FOR DEFRAY-
ING EXPENSES OF RIVERS
CONGRESS.

SUMMARY OF THE WORK

Captain Davenney Presents Review of Accomplishments of the Organization—Refers to Burton.

The city commission yesterday appropriated $100 to aid in defraying expenses of the National Rivers and Harbors congress. This amount is usually set aside by the city government for this purpose.

Ex-Mayor James B. Baker and Captain Wilson R. Davenney, the latter secretary of the rivers and harbors congress, appeared before the commission. They asked $150 or $200 appropriation this year. However, the committee, composed of Mayor Riggins, Commissioners Caulfield and Lit-telfield, to whom the matter was referred, decided the city should give $100.

Captain Davenney presented a summary of the work being done by the rivers and harbors congress and called attention that national opinion must be sustained in favor of waterways improvement, if success is attained.
He recalled the damage suffered by the cause by the recent action of Senator Burton in taking sides against the appropriation for water improvements. He said there was a cessation of railroad building in Texas at this time and waterways would, therefore, bring more benefits than ever. He said Los Angeles, Cal., has appropriated $1,000 to support the National Rivers and Harbors congress, and Dallas and Houston $500 each.

Ex-Mayor Baker reviewed the work of the congress also. Among other things he said, relative to Brazos river
work:

"With lock No. 1 completed, lock
No. 2 practically completed and appropriations made for locks Nos. 3
and 4, the preparations for Brazos navigation are well started. Waco as the head of Brazos navigation will have a great advantage over Houston as a waterway to the Gulf. The amount of the great amount of inland traffic
which will be available to trade Waco will be the only city of importance on the Mississippi to Texas."

COTTON PALACE BARS SAMPLES OF LIQUOR

The giving away of liquor samples
at the Cotton Palace will not be tol-derated at the 1915 and succeeding expositions, according to last night's decision of the board of directors. The retary Seth N. Mayfield was empowered to write Mrs. Nannie Webb Curties, president of the state W. C. T. U., a letter advising her that the directors uphold her in objections to such practices.

It was decided to place in future
contracts a clause giving the directors supervision of the distribution of any free samples of literature or the keeping of any register for visitors to sign, when in connection with the giving away of prizes. The action resulted from an objection made by Mrs. Curties at the student meeting that some samples of liquor had been given away to children at the 1914 Cotton Palace.

Two committees appeared before the directors last night, as did also John Gorham of Bosqueville, as a committee of one. The plan to place a municipal band on a sound footing and general plans to improve the livestock department at the Cotton Palace were the matters presented by the committee. Mr. Gorham urged the directors to give the agricultural interests more attention and assured them that it would bountifully repay them.

J. D. Smith, spokesman for the band committee, asked that a committee be named from the Cotton Palace board, and President W. J.
Neale appointed W. V. Crawford. The proposition entails the raising of $8-$26.70 per year for the support of the band and will be considered by the directors at the next meeting.

Mr. Smith also advocated the turning of floral hall into a music hall at this year's Palace. He said he believed enough manufacturers of pianos, violas, violins and other musical instruments would make exhibits to fill the hall.
Certain hours could be set apart for demonstrations and concerts by each exhibitor, so that they would not be all going at once, he suggested. The holding of singing contests in the coliseum, with a small extra charge,
and the holding of a big musical memorial exercise on Sunday in commemoration of those musicians who sank with the Titanic, were among the features embraced in his scheme.
He said he thought several of the National Musicians' union officials could be secured and that the music
show and fest would bring music lovers, not only from all parts of the state, but from neighboring states as well.

Clint Padgett reported that the Sewanee-Baylor football game would be played at the Cotton Palace, Nov.
8, and that an effort was being made to bring the University of Oklahoma here for a game. Two high school football games will also be played on the athletic field during the exposition.

John W. Baker, Bob Nichols of Mart, T. N. McMullen, Luke Moore,
Jr., and Judge Tom L. McCullough all spoke on the proposition of increasing and enlarging the livestock department. They asked for the doubling of the capacity of the show barns, the building of a half-mile track, the increasing of the premiums at least 50 per cent, the erection of as good a grandstand as possible and the moving of the present
stalls for horses to Dutton and Fifteenth streets. Secretary Mayfield was instructed to get figures as to what the requested improvements would cost and report to the next meeting.
The farmers of Texas want to be recognized at the Cotton Palace," said

PAPE'S DIAPEPSIN FOR INDIGESTION OR BAD STOMACH

RELIEVES SOURNESS, GAS,
HEARTBURN, DYSPEPSIA
IN FIVE MINUTES.

Sour, gassy, upset stomach, indigestion, heartburn, dyspepsia; when the food you eat ferments into gases
and produces heartburn, your head aches
and you feel sick and miserable.
That's when you realize the magic in Pape's Diapsin. It makes all stomach misery vanish in five minutes.

If your stomach is in a continuous revolt—if you can't get it regulated, please, for your sake, try Pape's Diapepsin. It's so needless to have a bad stomach—make your next meal a favorite food meal then take a little Diapsin. There will not be any distress—eat without fear. It's because Pape's Diapsin "really does"
regulate weak, out-of-order, stomachs that gives it its millions of sales annually.

Get a large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapsin from any drug store. It is the quickest, surest stomach relief and cure known. It acts almost like magic—it is a scientific, harmless and pleasant stomach preparation which truly belongs in every home.

John Gorham. He suggested that a separate building be given over to agricultural displays and said he thought much more attention should be given to that department of the exposition. He declared that the Cotton Palace could not live without the farmers and that it was not right to place the farmers' part of the show
back under the coliseum.

Three points he stressed, that a good agricultural show would add to the farmer's ability, would add to the state receipts at the Cotton Palace, and would add to the income of the business in Waco. In answer to a question from President Neale, he said he thought the floral building would be satisfactory quarters for this year.

Votes of thanks were extended both committees and to Mr. Gorham.

The Boy Scouts were granted the privilege of holding their weekly meetings in machinery hall, understanding that the Scout council be responsible for their actions and any possible damage to the building.

Jurors for New Court.

The drawing of forty jurors for the first term of the Seventy-fourth dis-

the transferring of cases began. About 400 cases will be transferred from the Nineteenth district court and a large number from the Fifty-fourth court.
The county commissioners gave in-

will open a week from today.

Judge Edwin J. Clark, who will preside over the new court, is and while busy serving as special judge in the

Makes Stubborn Coughs Vanish in a Hurry

Surprisingly Good Cough Syrup
Easily and Cheaply
Made at Home

If some one in your family has an obstinate cough or a bad throat or chest cough that is hanging on and refuses to yield to treatment, get from my store
2 1/2 ounces of Pinex and make it into a pint of cough syrup, and watch
the cough vanish.

Four or 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth) in a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. The total cost is about 54 cents, and gives you a full pint—a family supply for a most effective remedy, at a saving of $2. A day's use will usually overcome a hard cough. Easily prepared in 5 minutes—full directions with Pinex.
Children like it.

It's really remarkable how promptly and easily it loosens the dry, hoarse or tight cough and heals the inflamed membranes in a painful cough. It also stops the formation of phlegm in the throat and bronchial tubes, thus ending the persistent loose cough. A splendid remedy for bronchitis, winter coughs, bronchial asthma and whooping cough.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, rich in quinine, which is so healing to the membranes.

Avoid disappointment by asking your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex," and of absolute satisfaction goes with this preparation or money promptly refunded.

COTTON SEED FLOUR AND ITS QUALITIES

ADDRESS ON FOOD PRODUCT IS PROMISED THE ROTARY CLUB MEMBERS.

Will Attend Convention

Report Made That Many Rotarians
Will Mingle with Ad Writers
Next Week.

Hot rolls, made from flour of cotton seed, furnished by V. V. Damon, of the Brazos Valley Cotton Oil company, were enjoyed by the members of the Rotary club yesterday at the State House. The bread was greatly enjoyed and no word as to what it was composed of, or where it came from,
was given the Rotarians until the meal had been practically completed.
So well had the rolls been enjoyed that Mr. Damon was invited to address the club at an early date on the nutritive qualities of cotton seed flour.

The rolls contained about 25 per cent of cotton seed flour, the remainder being from wheat flour, and everybody who tasted them pronounced them excellent. Mr. Damon shipped the meal he made up at his local mill to Schulenburg and had it bolted
in the only complete cotton seed flour mill in the world, Mr. Damon says.
The Rotarians were very much interested and want to know more of the project. Mr. Damon said the Cotton Seed Crushers' association of Texas was shipping a carload of this flour
to Belgium for the war sufferers.

It is anticipated a number of Rotarians will be here from other points in the state next week for the Ad club convention and it was voted to hold the weekly luncheon on Wednesday instead of Monday in order to have the visiting Rotarians present as guests. Local members of the club will have the privilege of inviting any of the other advertising men as their individual guests if they care to do so. President J. M. Penland will preside as toastmaster on that occasion and W. V. Crawford and C. E. Harman will deliver regular addresses,
with Will Poage extending a word of welcome to the visitors. To invite the visitors, a committee consisting of W. V. Crawford, John F.
Wright and C. G. Snead was named.

R. F. Drake, toastmaster, said he had been before the commissioners' court in an effort to have that body appropriate $225 toward the salary of a competent woman to demonstrate canning, preserving and the like to the girls of the county, the idea being to induce them to grow fruit and vegetables into canned products for home use, thus materially aiding the live-at-home movement and reducing the cost of living. The club endorsed the project and joined in a request to the commissioners' court to make the appropriation asked.

Mr. Drake said he now has more pigs than he can care for and he hopes the Rotarians knowing of ambitious and capable young boys who want a pig will notify him so he can place
the pigs.

W. S. Rathell, speaking to the subject, "Can the Altruistic Ideals and the Practical Purposes of Rotary Be Combined?" this being the subject assigned for January study by the international committee, declared that a man could give every legitimate consideration to his business affairs and still discharge his obligations of service to his fellow man. And while many business men have been content to push only their business, the day is dawning when the business man considers his part of his business to assist his fellow man. Rathell said.
His address was cordially received.

It is no longer for opticians and oculists to send outside the state to get their lenses ground, declared John Wycher of the Wycher Optical company, who said Texas now has three optical manufacturing establishments.
His establishment in Waco is one of these.

Business is picking up rapidly, and his trade for the month of January was larger than that of all four months preceding, declared A. E.
Kalkhurst, local representative of the Burroughs Adding Machine company.
Advices from his headquarters are that business conditions are rapidly improving all over the country.

Impromptu speeches were made by H. Hagedorn Jr. and T. M. Smart, the latter a visitor, while B. C. Nettles gave an account of his recent trip to Wichita, Kan., where he attended the district convention of Rotary clubs.
He gave a brief outline of the things done there and told of the excellent reception given the visitors. Dr. Carl Loveless, the other Waco delegate, addressed the Wichita convention on what he thought this country ought to do in an effort to promote trade relations between this country and South America, where he spent a number of years.

The resignation of A. A. Matthews was accepted, he having removed from this city to Dallas.

New members were elected as follows: J. J. South, F. E. Goodman, D.
F. Beaman, J. S. Hill, C. T. Shook, J. S.
Harrison and R. H. Berry.

J. W. (WILL) DODSON MAKES STATEMENT.

It has come to my knowledge that a report is current that I had withdrawn from the race for city secretary. I herely denounce such as absolutely untrue and false.

This old political gag is so antiquated that it no longer serves to deceive. I am in this race to stay with great assurances of success. I am actively engaged in my campaign and I hope in the next few days to be able to see in person every one not yet seen.

Deeply appreciative of the encouragement thus far given me by my friends and supporters, I yearn for the opportunity when I shall be able to reciprocate in acts of official courtesy. Respectfully,
J. W. DODSON.

OUR POLICY "THE PUBLIC BE PLEASED"

3-CENT REDUCTION MAY BE GIVEN WACO

A 3c reduction in Waco's key rate for fire insurance may be obtained in the event the proposed building code is adopted and a regular inspection of buildings is made. This was the statement of Sam P. Herbert, who assumed the office of city building inspector yesterday. Herbert was appointed two weeks ago, effective Feb. 1. He spent the two weeks intervening between his appointment and beginning work obtaining information as to codes in use in other cities. He visited San Antonio, Dallas, Fort Worth and Austin, and had a conference with state fire marshal English. He also prepared data for use in the code here.

He told the commission yesterday that without radical changes in building rules he believed a 3c reduction in Waco's key rate could be obtained.
He said what was needed was not radical changes in regulations, but strict enforcement of regulations. He said he received encouragement from State Fire Marshal English, after he had outlined his plans, and believes the 3c reduction here can easily be obtained.

Tom Padgett Company After War Contract

The Tom Padgett company may land another contract from a European country for war supplies. Forrest Goodman, representing that company, left yesterday morning for New York, carrying with him a trunk full of samples. He will meet other saddle and harness men there and they will show samples to representatives of the French government.

Tom Padgett, president of the company, received a telegram Sunday night requesting him to come to New York at once to bid on harness and saddlery supplies for the French army.
The telegram also stated if the matter could not be closed in New York
it would be necessary to cross the ocean to France. Mr. Goodman will represent the Padgett company and if the deal cannot be closed in New York will go to France.

The Padgett company has the contract for furnishing hundreds of saddles and harness for the English government, which contract has about been filled. They will make a strong bid for a contract from the French government.

DR. A. G. GEBHARD,
Genito-Urinary and Rectal Specialist, has removed from 1164 Amicable, to
